

An aerial photograph of a tropical resort. In the upper center, there is a large, irregularly shaped swimming pool with clear blue water, surrounded by palm trees and lounge chairs. To the left of the pool is a large building with a thatched roof. Below the pool, there is a long, low structure with a white roof, possibly a bar or a covered walkway. To the right of this structure, there are several thatched-roof huts and a sandy beach area. A small yellow boat is on the beach. The resort is surrounded by dense green tropical vegetation. In the bottom right corner, there is a body of water with a small dock and a boat.
